

Guide to the Resources Page:

Financial Statements are listed by year.

Each includes the Income Statement, Balance Sheet, Check Register, and the closing Bank Statement for that year.

Note that in some cases, the balance sheet will show a larger number than the amount shown on the closing bank statement.

This is due to a long-standing policy of entering the date of a check received as the date written, which simplifies the task of assisting an owner in locating a check that they wrote, but can throw off the numbers a bit, if the check is written in December, but received in January.
